(Crewe, September 27 2023) As the next step in its mission to become the most diverse luxury car manufacturer in the world, Bentley Motors today launches the 'Belonging Bentayga'. This unique hand-painted Alpine Green Bentayga Hybrid features different skylines and well-known buildings from all across the world like New York, London, Paris, Rome, Milan, Venice, Tokyo and Hong Kong – each side of the car representing a different continent. The art piece that displays 29 different landmarks is drawn from memory by Stephen Wiltshire MBE, a British architectural artist and autistic savant, who is known for his ability to draw a landscape after seeing it just once.

This is the first time a Bentley was hand-painted in this way at the factory in Crewe, developed with a unique process from the Bentley Excellence Center Bespoke Paint team.

Stephen Wiltshire comments: “Buildings have a way of telling a story, where you were born, your first job, where you got married, happy memories mean happy people. I have been on many travels throughout my career and what stands out for me the most are the buildings, their architecture and the people. I believe Bentley and the Belonging Bentayga relate in the same way, bringing people together, creating a journey, creating memories. My art has always been about existing and connecting. The Belonging Bentayga was a great challenge for me, but I like to be challenged as it tests my ability, and it also proves that if you put your heart and soul into it, you can overcome anything. I am very proud of the finished car which in my humble opinion looks amazing!”

Press Information

Stephen Wiltshire was born in London to West Indian parents. As a child he was mute and, aged three, was diagnosed with autism. However, his family and teachers soon realized that rather than using words, Stephen communicated through the language of drawing. He started with animals before graduating to buses and finally buildings. His sketches, detailed cityscapes which feature a subtle wit, have earned him plaudits from around the world.

In 2021, having recognized the fundamental importance of diverse experiences and perspectives, Bentley Motors set out a five-step strategy focusing on outreach, recruitment, succession, planning, culture and development to enhance diversity and inclusion at the brand's Crewe-based dream factory.

To mark the launch of the strategy, the Bentley Design team was challenged to create artwork for a car that celebrates diversity in all its forms. The Unifying Spur was created by Bentley designer Rich Morris, a painter and sculptor in his spare time. Morris's work of automotive art, based on the nine colors of the Progress Flag, connects the word "Love is Love" through a single line that traces faces, dancing figures and shapes, representing the unifying power of humanity, regardless of race, creed or sexuality.

Bentley's rainbow-inspired Continental GT V8 Convertible was also launched in July 2020. It celebrated three key themes for Bentley: pride in the diversity of its colleagues at its home in Crewe and around the world as well as hope and gratitude as the business began to emerge from the COVID-19 crisis.
